Incres sing Sea Power.

It is raore than probable that the two new battleships and two arm ored cruisers for the building of which Secretary of the Navy Long will ask the anthority of the Fifty-seventh Congress will be duly added to the American Navy at the earliest moment possible to Public sentiment is strongli in favor of the continuod strength:ening of teis country's sea power. The developments of the war with in this direction It was the splendid performance of American war-ships and American sailors which so speedily terminated that war for the glory of American arms. The lesson then tanght was that the navy is the bulwark of our national militant strength.

The designs for the four new ships have already been prepared Eas What You Like.
